Several musical selections were rendered, which were welcomed. Mr. Henry Leonard, a ministerial student and a well-known member of the council, was the next speaker. Contests-Mr. Throckmorton Files Sensational Charges Against Mr. Wendenburg.

The latest development in connection with the Henrico election, the aftermath of which is almost as interesting as the balloting itself, is the request of Mr. Walter J. Todd, a defeated candidate for the office of Treasurer, for a recount of the entire vote cast for that position. Up to yesterday Mr. Todd had made no move toward making a contest, but in so far as his request may be regarded in so far as his request may be regarded in this light, he is now in the field, and Mr. Brauer is besieged on both sides, Mr. Hechler has already filed notice of a contest, on the ground of violation of the Barksdale pure-election law. Mr. Todd makes no such charge, but merely asks that the ballots be sone over again. The vote which gave Mr. Brauer the nomination exceeded Mr. Todd's by less than a hundred. The defeated candidate believes that a mistake in the count is very possible, and with such close running a mistake, insignificant as it might under ordinary circumstances appear, would count for a good deal. The judges worked late after a hard day of it, and Mr. Todd thinks it very possible that they might have made a miscount here and there. It is on this supposition that he bases his request.

While his murderous assailant flees from justice, Mr. James Wilten Gordon went to the City Hospital, suffering from many cuts and blows about the head. Had it been light, or had there been a lemp in the room the assailant would doubtless have succeeded in accomplishing his evident purpose of murder. But in the dark his hlows fell unaimed and at random. It is probably due to this that Mr. Gordon is now a maimed man rather than a corpse.

Mrs. Loving saw the bloody axe, and she ran to Mr. Gordon's room, where the sight of the wounded man, with blood flowing freely from half a dozen places in his head, almost made her sick.

She called Dr. McGowan, and the ambulance was sent for. Dr. Sycle responded, and Mr. Gordon was taken hurriediy to the City Hospital, where he was given the best of attention, and made as comfortable as possible until last night, when he returned home, much improved and probably out of danger. His family physician will now attend him.
